

Privacy & Data protection

At the BCO we take your privacy seriously and will only use your personal information to administer your awards entry and arrange the judges' visits. We will also contact you with helpful information on how to make your application stand out from the crowd and to remind you of the entry deadline.

We may also contact you to arrange a tour of your project, to participate in BCO research projects and to make you aware of opportunities related to your awards entry, such as the Test of Time Award (an award open to past award winners from five years ago).

Your personal details will only be viewed by BCO administrators, Createvents, who are the BCO awards administrators and the appointed BCO judges.

Please note, it is the applicant's responsibility to gain permission from project team members to be contacted by the BCO. If this permission has not been obtained, only the company name should be completed.
